PARTNERS PRESENT AT DATA CLOUD GLOBAL CONGRESS 2023

Apr 12, 2023

BCLP Partners Barry Gross and Jinal Shah will present at Datacloud Global Congress 2023, hosted April 25-27 in Monaco.

Barry will lead the panel discussion sharing his expertise on the future of data centres in the panel session 'Leaders in Data Centre Investment: What are the top 5 predictions for the next 12 months?' Continued growth in digital demand continues to stimulate investment across digital infrastructures, from the expansion of fibre networks and the increase in data centre capacity, alongside an emerging spotlight on the metaverse and its associated technologies. We hear from leaders in data centre investment and analyze their predictions for the next 12 months. The panel will cover: What are the most prominent trends in the public cloud, managed infrastructure and edge? And the difference in private markets versus public markets.

Jinal will moderate a panel discussion on the current M&A market shape entitled 'What are the potential headwinds facing global M&A?' In a volatile market shaped by global geopolitics, inflation, higher interest rates, taxes, regulation and fallout from COVID-19, we will look at the dealmaker's thoughts on the speed of change impacting significant M&A opportunities. This panel will cover the current M&A landscape and developments driving global expansion

Datacloud Global Congress is the premier leadership gathering for senior executives in the ICT space, notably with a focus on digital infrastructure (data centres, cloud providers, edge providers) with finance, tech leaders, enterprise, terrestrial and subsea fiber providers, energy companies and government agencies in attendance. BCLP is sponsoring the event. Barry and Jinal will be joined at Datacloud by Pierre Popesco, Albrecht von Breitenburch and Michel Koutsomanis from our EMEA Data Centre and Digital Infrastructure Team.
